Dear Dr. Stein:

I trust that all is going well with you.

Two weeks ago I was returning from my son's home in Lindsay taking my usual scenic route, it was after 8:30 pm, in a time my Scottish parents would call "the gloaming" - that long-evening lighting effect of the time of year.

As I drove I could see the moon and one or two brighter stars in the slowly-darkening sky and also laid out before me I could see with clarity and vividness the rolling countryside of fields with their near-ripe crops of contrasting colour, texture and height, with sightings of the first porch lights coming on at the farmhouses scattered across the landscape.

As the road, which was mostly newly-paved gently undulated and weaved through this fantasia-like atmosphere and the car effortlessly flowing along, I found myself humming at this whole spectacle and had an urge that I must drop you a line to re-express my appreciation.

So, thank you for what you have accomplished with my cataract operation – it is sincerely appreciated.

No need to reply to this – just some time when you have the moment to sit back, relax into yourself and permit the full knowing of the many of us whose lives have been positively enriched and view of the world uplifted because of your skill, expertise and dedication to this work and that of your friendly, helpful and finessing-us-through-the-process re-assuringly staff.

Life is goooood!!

Thanks again.

Sincerely,

Ian Morrison
